

Pirates Bar

It is said that Pirates of European origin were the first settlers on Fregate Island in the mid 17th century, the close fresh water well and the good quality of the water found on Fregate Island together with the fact of having found a spot with well secluded beaches and coves made the island the perfect hideout for Pirates over many decades. Impressive foundations only steps away from the beaches of Anse Parc witness the history of this settlement and numerous artifacts as well a various mentioning in diaries and literature of the 19th century pay tribute to the story. Many legends rank about treasures that have been buried in the Seychelles including a huge fortune stolen from English boats by a French Pirate by the name Le Vrasseur. The legend says that one of four possible islands which hosts this multi, multi million treasure is Fregate Island. And since Le Vrasseur only glimpses before been hung at the gallow shouted to his servant "(...) find it for me (...)", the fire of treasure hunting has not been extinct ever since here in the Seychelles...

The possibly most valuable treasure that has been left behind are the many orange trees that grew from pimps and seeds that were spit out by the pirates who discovered the and explored the island. The genetic code of these Oranges has not been changed in over 400 years. The rich content of vitamin C and the beautiful flavors remind us how the pirates must have savored these fruits to prevent themselves from getting Scobey and how oranges must have tasted in the Renaissance-time back in Europe...

Please find enclosed our array of fine and rare spirits. We have tried to compile a little treasure chest with some of the finest finds and by emphasizing of rums, exquisite Malt Whiskies and – to bridge to the trends of today – with a collection of handpicked and beautifully manufactured Sake's we are delighted to let you discovery known and less known brands from the four corners of this planet.
